

Chiang Mai Walking Guide

The Austin Experience

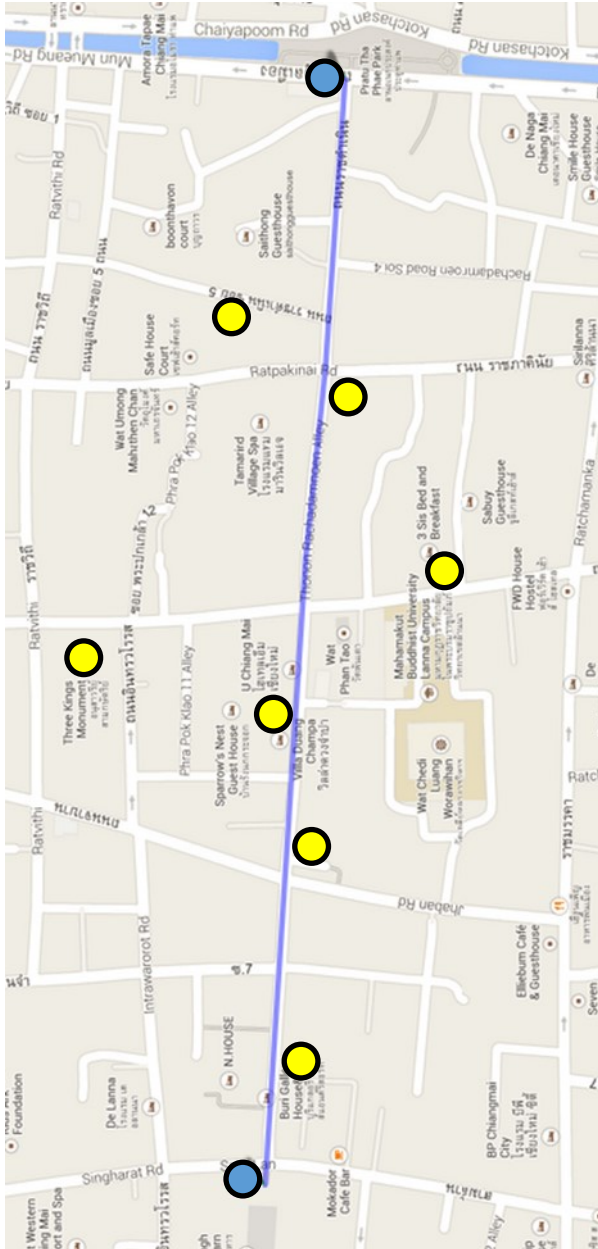

eGuides

Chiang Mai City

One of the oldest cities in Thailand's history and known as the rose of the north, Chiang Mai has a rich history to offer travellers from the story of the old wall and moat system which is still evident surrounding what is known as 'The Old City' to the monuments and statues that tower above modern day life. The heart of it all lies in Rachadamnoen Road a stretch of straight road measuring 1km in length and lined by an array of different sights, sounds and smells. Take a diversion down one of the small Soi's (alleyways) and see what you can find. Be a little adventurous and you never know what kind of hidden treasures you will come across. Like all of the great cities, life in Chiang Mai is best seen away from the main roads - in the small nooks which are only accessible by foot - at least until you come to Thailand that is...

Thae Pae Gate

Wat Phra Singh

Self-Guided Walking Tour

The options provided within this self-guided tour booklet should serve as a suggestion only. The whole idea of a self-guided tour is to guide yourself! So use this guide as just that, a guide. Explore the wonderful city of Chiang Mai for yourself and find one of the many curious features that this sensational city has to offer.

Walking Time

All detours have an estimated walking time. These times are based on a medium pace with stops not accounted for. The allowed time for this self-guided tour is approximately 90 minutes which should give you sufficient time to explore the highlights of Rachadamnoen Road, take a few detours and make some notes for places you may want to visit later!